

It isn't wrong to love
But the way you express it can be
You can claim your way of love
Is right and genuine
But seeing through crimson lenses
To ignore all the warnings
Is hurting both you and them

To show love
Is to see things through their eyes
To notice their discomfort
In the biggest to littlest of things
As well as their comfort
In their love language

To demonstrate love
Is to pay attention to their likes and dislikes
To be open to new ideas
That may seem insignificant to some
But important to others

To convey love
Is to stand in their shoes
Doing things they love to do
Regardless of the gazes
And looks from outsiders

To feel love
Is to allow your heart
To care for someone else
For their wellbeing and success

But love can be unkind
By inflicting more hurt
Than solace
In various ways
Leading to consequences
Beyond repair

Love can be many things
Showed in many forms
But what doesn't change
Is that everyone has a chance at love
To love and be loved

But it's up to them
To decide which one to take
As it feels good to love
But even better to be loved