HISTORY

The Family Violence and Sexual Assault Institute (FVSAI) was founded in 1984 by Dr. Robert Geffner to be a national resource and training institute focusing on family violence issues. In July 2005, FVSAI joined with Alliant International University to form the Institute on Violence, Abuse & Trauma (IVAT). FVSAI and IVAT work together as non-profit institutes to reduce violence, abuse and trauma across the lifespan.

Over the years, FVSAI has expanded to include child, teen and elder maltreatment as well as sexual assault issues. IVAT now encompasses multiple components that specialize in training and programs, research, disseminating information, professional services, two annual international summits, regional mini-conferences, policy issues, as well as community relations and outreach for each of its broad topic areas.

PROFESSIONAL TRAINING

IVAT is accredited to offer continuing education (CE) credits, training opportunities and certifications for attorneys, judges, law enforcement, military personnel, and mental health professionals in the fields of violence, abuse, and trauma. A Speakers' Bureau is also available for professional training worldwide.

SERVICES

• PROFESSIONAL

IVAT and FVSAI are training and resource centers that focus directly and specifically on violence, abuse and trauma; our goal is to respond to it and address its impact across the lifespan. We are concerned with issues ranging from child maltreatment, sexual assault, children exposed to violence, intimate partner violence, and post traumatic stress disorder (PTSD).

• FORENSIC

The forensic consulting team at IVAT serves clients who are involved in criminal, family, and civil cases involving a broad range of forensic issues (sexual or physical), including child custody, child abuse, family violence allegations, sexual assault, and trauma. Services offered include: conducting child custody evaluations, writing reports for court, observations of interactions between involved parties, psychological expert witness testimony and forensic evaluations, and providing treatment for a variety of emotional and behavioral problems.

• CLINICAL

The clinicians at IVAT provide: therapy (individual, family, and group) psychological assessment, supervised visitation, and parenting skills training.

Treatment services are provided on a sliding scale based on income.

PROVIDERS

Our clinical team consists of licensed psychologists, post-doctoral fellows, pre-doctoral interns, forensic associates and psychological assistants. Each of our clinical treatment providers has a minimum of a masters degree in Clinical or Forensic Psychology and is either working on a doctorate or has already obtained their doctorate.
